Known for her books on panda satire, she has taken the best of her characters and put them into a coloring book, suitable for all ages. As the subtitle says, pandas don't have to be just black and white, and each page provides an opportunity for the one holding the colored pencils or crayons to use their imagination to the extreme! The 115 page book includes blank pages so each masterpiece can be protected. She even provides guidance for the best type of coloring utensils to maximize the experience. I can hardly wait to roll up my sleeves and take out my Crayolas. A great gift for children of any age, including those over 50!1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. for Panda Lovers By J. Alberts This is a terrific coloring book that is really a companion book to go along with a series of books called "The Panda Chronicles". Wonderful book for panda lovers...

Yeah, Yeah, we know...pandas are black and white. But just because they are chromatically challenged, it doesn't mean they don't live in a colorful world. Get out your colored pencils, crayons and markers, because it's time to bring a little color to the pandas of The Panda Chronicles! This is fun for the whole family. As Princess Pinky says, the only thing more fun and relaxing than watching panda videos, is coloring pictures with pandas!

About the Author Belovs love of animals and offbeat sense of humor inspired her to turn her artistic talents to a series of cartoons starring her cat, Mehitabel and Bob, the panda. Brought up on Winnie the Pooh, and The Wind in the Willows, she has always believed that animals not only can talk, but that they have quite a lot to say for themselves. She lives on Whidbey Island in a house in the woods, surrounded by many animals, unfortunately not pandas. Her main regret in life is that there is no MacArthur Fellowship awarded in the field of panda satire.
